No Mars Message, Yet Dear Old Constitution Love Out of Date? Hardly Torture and Hanging

Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

SATURDAY, day after tomorrow, Mars comes within thirty-five million miles of us. Not to come so close again for 200 years. It is too much to hope for any message from our highly educated older brother in space. A planet millions of years older than we are probably looks upon us as a full-grown man looks at a new baby biting its toes, considering us something interesting to look at, but too young to be taught.

MR. DAWES says the issue is "The Constitution versus radicalism in the United States." That is all right for a short campaign, but there isn't much substance in it.

The radicalism of today sometimes becomes good United States Constitution of tomorrow.

THE INCOME TAX was radical. Learned Supreme Court judges declared it unconstitutional. "Financial respectability" denounced it. It is in the Constitution now.

And so of woman suffrage, once so highly ridiculous. That's in the Constitution.

TO INTERFERE with child labor, highly profitable, in fact essential to profit in certain sections, is called "radicalism," or worse—socialism or anarchy. But that will be in the Constitution soon.

IT WAS RADICALISM once to suggest that slaves should be free. In New Jersey, when someone printed a prayer book showing a negro in chains kneeling at the feet of the Saviour, along with other unfortunates, the picture was rejected by church authorities. It was called "radical," and "respectability" felt that a negro in chains was all right.

The Constitution now holds the radical statement that a black skin shouldn't deprive a human being of his human rights. Once the public school was considered worse than radical. It is the cornerstone of the republic now.

In fifty years La Follette will seem as conservative as Tui-Ank-Hamen.

THERE IS MORE real meat for conservatives in General Dawes' warning that Governor Bryan may be the next President of the United States. If the election were thrown into Congress, it is at least 2 to 1 that Bryan would be the next President.

That doesn't worry the people that know Bryan, a straightforward representative of good American citizenship. But it does worry such gentlemen as have more money than knowledge of the country in which they live.

MRS. BORDEN, novelist, says, "Love is played out as a theme for novels, the subject has been squeezed dry."

"Love and sex," she thinks, are both out of date. But she is mistaken. As soon as man was created it was noticed that something was missing. Eve was produced, then along came the snake, forming the first "triangle." Early legends concerning that snake are queer. Ask the moving picture makers. They will tell you that whether you show the wild West or the crafty East, you must drag in your "love story" or miss your crowd.

THE PUBLIC PROSECUTOR demands death for young Leopold and Loeb. "If they do not deserve hanging, no murderers ever did deserve it."

The question, however, is not alone "What the young murderers deserve?" but also "What does the public deserve?"

Everybody admits that putting men to the torture in judicial proceedings was demoralizing, degrading. Nobody would restore the torture.

Ravaillac, who killed Henry IV., may have "deserved" to be killed by torture inch by inch. The question is: Did the French people deserve to have that disgrace put upon them?

The young Chicago murderers deserve death if any criminals ever did deserve it, assuming their mental responsibility. And putting them out of the way, by

U. S. FLIERS HOP OFF TO GREENLAND

Army Aviators on Longest Lap of World Flight, 825 Miles, Today

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 21 (A.P.)—The American round-the-world fliers and Lieutenant Locatelli, Italian airman, hopped off from here at 8:15 a. m.

The fliers passed the United States cruiser Richmond, on patrol about seventy miles off the Iceland coast, at 9:35 a. m.

Locatelli was leading his American companions, Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith and Lieutenant Erik H. Nelson, by five miles.

Flying conditions were excellent when the aviators set out. Locatelli, who caught up with the Americans to accompany them across the Atlantic after a lone flight from Pisa, Italy, got off eleven minutes after Lieutenant Nelson.

The American fliers arrived at Reykjavik August 6. They are heading for Fredericksdal, near Cape Farewell, Greenland, a hop of about 825 miles.

TWO CANDIDATES LOSE FIGHTS FOR PLACEMENT

Judge Waite of the Superior Court today dismissed petitions brought by Arthur G. Coker of Somerville and Joseph Ricenan of Revere, for a review of the acts of the Ballot Law Commission.

Coker is third assistant registrar of probate and insolvency in Middlesex. He also is a candidate for registrar, his name coming up in the Republican primaries on September 9. He wants to have the fact that he is third assistant printed on his nomination papers.

Ricenan wants to be one of the nine commissioners to apportion Suffolk County into representative districts. He objects to the names of Louis B. Sennale on the ticket, claiming he did not file papers within the prescribed time.

S. mail truck which killed 14-year-old Darnid Weydt, of Atlantic, on the Summer street viaduct yesterday, was released on bail and the hearing on a technical charge of manslaughter was continued until tomorrow by Judge Logan in South Boston Court today. Police are investigating to determine whether the operator was exceeding the speed limit.

Babe Ruth Aids Man Who Blocked His Car Pay Fine

New York, Aug. 21.—Babe Ruth knocked a home run in the good samaritan league today.

A motor truck chauffeur, Barney Shane, fined $50 in traffic court for having driven his truck in front of the Babe's car while Mrs. Ruth and the wife of Mike McNally, ankee utility infielder, were driving it, had only $25. The court said Shane would have to pay the difference by imprisonment in the work house. Then the Babe came to the plate.

"I'll pay the fine, judge," he volunteered. "Here's $50." But Shane insisted on giving over his $25 and let the Yankee swatter make up the $15 difference.

70 SHOPS HIT BY CLOAK STRIKE

In protest against working conditions, 1,500 union cloak, suit and skirt makers went on strike today.

Seventy shops are affected. The question of wages is not involved.

The strikers desire to prevent employers from working at machines themselves in the dull season and displacing operatives, to establish union rules and abolish sweat shop conditions.

It is not anticipated that the strike will last more than a day or two. Most of the employers affected have agreements drawn up, ready for signing. They are prepared to meet the terms of their employes.

Quitting their machines at 10 a. m., the strikers marched to Paine Memorial Hall, No. 9 Appleton street, here they were addressed by their leaders.

Sol Seidman, chairman of the general strike committee of the joint board of the Cloak, Skirt and Dress-makers' Union of the International Ladies' Garment Workers, signed the strike order, as did B. Kurland, vice-chairman.

Two robbers escaped on the truck and four sped away in a sedan in which the truck driver and his helper had been kidnaped.

SEIZE GIRL, MAN AND GEMS

Police Try to Connect Prisoners With $100,000 Robbery at the Skinner Store

Joseph "Red" Sweeney of Charlestown, his wife Naomi, a quantity of jewelry and two guns were seized by the police in a third floor room of the Hotel Alphin, No. 331 Tremont street, South End.

Sweeney has been identified as one of two men who held up and robbed Abraham M. Sonnabend, manager of the Massachusetts Loan Company, No. 216 Massachusetts avenue, last Tuesday morning.

The police of Division 4 are trying today to determine whether the Charlestown man had any connection with the $110,000 jewel robbery from Carl H. Skinner's store, No. 396 Boylston street.

The couple were arrested as the result of an altercation with three young men in the Broadway parking space. Patrolman Coleman Morrison noticed they were engaged in a dispute which ended in blows being struck by the men.

CARRIED FOUR GRIPS.

The policeman broke up the gathering, but being suspicious of the Sweeneys, followed them to the Hotel Alphin. Carrying four grips, they entered the hotel about 11 o'clock.

Sergeant Edward Ryan was consulted and the raid decided upon. The girl, although somewhat hysterical, submitted without trouble.

The four traveling bags were found under the bed, together with a number of hotel towels containing jewelry. In one of the grips, which contained expensive clothing, the police found a sawed-off shotgun and a loaded .38-calibre revolver.

At Station 4 it was found that the loot consisted of 42 watches, 32 chains, 94 rings, 24 stickpins, 4 lockets, 24 pairs of cuff links, 2 lodge charms, 44 ring stones, none of them diamonds, and a belt buckle.

IDENTIFIES SWEENEY.

Police throughout the city and police inspectors who, with the Pinkerton National Detective Agency, are working on the Skinner robbery, were notified.

Mr. Sonnabend was taken to the station house and readily identified Sweeney. He said Sweeney, with

BOLT STRIKES OFFICE

CHARGE THIERY SUICIDE TRY WAS PLOT

By BERT FORD.

That Raymond D. Thiery, alleged slayer of David M. Noble, was building an insanity defense when he slashed the main artery of his arm in a reported suicide attempt, that he did not want to die, and, as a physician, knew that he would not die, is the latest theory of certain officials investigating the Somervills tragedy.

The officials claim to see in the three "farewell" letters written by Thiery, indications of his mental design to create evidence in his own favor. This hypothesis has caused a new survey of other angles of the case.

The sentence in the letter to his parents which reads: "Last night God seemed to say I might come and I am going" and the sentence "I have always tried to be a good Christian, as you know, and want to go to join Louise and David in Heaven now," investigators interpret as proof that Dr. Thiery expected to

BRYAN INJURED AS SPEEDING AUTO UPSETS

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 21.—William Jennings Bryan was injured when an automobile in which he was speeding from Tuscola to Mattoon, Ill., turned over on the highway.

Mr. Bryan was cut and bruised about the head and face, but was able to give a scheduled lecture upon arrival at Mattoon.

News of the accident was withheld at Mr. Bryan's request for the reason that he did not want Mrs. Bryan, who is ill at her home in Florida, to know of the incident.

CUBAN MAYOR SLAIN BY SUSPECT'S BROTHER

Havana, Aug. 21.—Dr. Luis Felipe Rodanos, mayor of Aguazate, died from six revolver bullets fired into his body by Jose Manuel Garrastazu, 25 years old, who told the police he was avenging a false denunciation by Mayor Rolanos. Jose Antonio Garrastazu, chief of police of Aguazate and a brother of the lad, recently was charged by the mayor with robbing the city treasury of $6,425.

CHARGES GOVERNMENT "FIRPO FIGHT PARTNER"

Washington, Aug. 21.—The Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church today took a hand in the controversy over the status of Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine fighter, by protesting to Secretary Davis of the Labor Department against delay in the perjury proceedings brought against the pugilist in New York. "To defer the hearing to Sept. 20 creates the general public impression that the United States government is co-operating with professional prizefighters for the purpose of facilitating a commercialized prize fight," the board's secretary wrote.

They had completed one-fourth of their journey to Greenland in two hours and twenty-five minutes.

TELEGRAPH OPERATOR STUNNED

Neighbors Alarmed Over the Safety of President, but He Enjoyed Vermont Storm

Plymouth, Vt., Aug. 21.—Lightning played dangerously close to the temporary home of President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge today, during the worst electrical storm ever experienced here.

From all corners of the rugged side farmers poured into the village to assure themselves the President and his family were safe.

One bolt of lightning struck a telephone pole not fifty yards from the home of Colonel John Coolidge, father of the President, where the presidential party is staying.

It darted through the wires into the general store across the way.

Upstairs are the temporary executive offices of the President and his staff. Telegraph sets there were wrecked and an operator on night duty at one of the instruments had a narrow escape from death. The blue flame broke a few feet from him and the shock left him stunned.

PRESIDENT UNCONCERNED.

Had there been electric light wires entering the old-fashioned Coolidge home the bolt undoubtedly would have struck the house.

President Coolidge was awake during the storm, but neither he nor any member of his family exhibited any concern.

It was the opinion of the President that Vermont storms are getting bigger and better and that the electrical display was well worth the trip from Washington.

As storms in the Green Mountains will, the tempest departed as swiftly as it had come.

"It looks like a good day for haying," the President remarked after the storm, and prepared to don his overalls and assist Ed Blanchard, a neighbor, to get some hay into the barn.

Blanchard, in his first visit to the survive and to provide material for his counsel.

CONFLICT OF OPINION

There is a conflict of opinion in official circles, however, as to Thiery's intent. Some think the accused interne really wanted to end his life. These officials say that instructions to his parents what to do with his fraternity pin, his medical equipment and other property show that the doctor supposed he would be dead when the letters pinned to his pajamas that were found.

But those advancing the contrary theory say the bequests were all part of the prisoner-patient's plan to dupe the authorities. Those who charge Dr. Thiery with feigning suicide claim that one who could, as they aver, fake a burglary and feign injury by burglars, would be just the type to trump up a spectacular fake suicide.

Those who scout the suicide intent, point to the brevity of Dr. Thiery's note to his sweetheart, Miss Emily Priest, step-daughter of Dr. Louis Guy Mead of No. 122 Marlboro street, and at present a student nurse at Manhattan Maternity Hospital in New York.

They say if the interne really intended to die he would be apt to write a longer farewell to her and would not have bothered to write a note of thanks to Chief of Police Charles A. Kenall of Somerville.

Supporters of the argument that Thiery knew he would not die, cite the opinion of medical experts who claim that a doctor who really courted death could meet it with the blade by severing the jugular or the artery of either wrist. These critics say when Dr. Thiery punctured the artery of his right arm near the joint he did not select a spot that would necessarily be fatal.

The counter argument that Dr. Thiery lost more than a pint of blood and was almost at the point of death is met by opponents of the suicide theory with the rejoinder that the accused knew that he could make his condition known of the moment artery at the critical time and that he did groan in time to be discovered when suffering from intestinal pain due to loss of blood.

The Boston American knew for some days that Dr. Thiery had a sweetheart and that he planned to marry her as soon as he finished his period as an interne and had become established in the medical profession.

He and Miss Priest were engaged, but formal announcement had not been made. They had exchanged fraternity pins and their affair was known to both families and to their friends. But prospect of their marriage was remote.

MET IN 1923

Thiery is twenty-six and Miss Priest twenty-four. They first met while Miss Priest was a student nurse at the Children's Hospital and while Dr. Thiery was serving his first months as an interne after being graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1923.

They attended socials arranged for young doctors and medical students and nurses. Dr. Thiery made Miss Priest his particular guest at his graduation and she attended class day with him at Harvard last June. She went to New York in July to become a student nurse at the Manhattan.

INSPECT ROOM

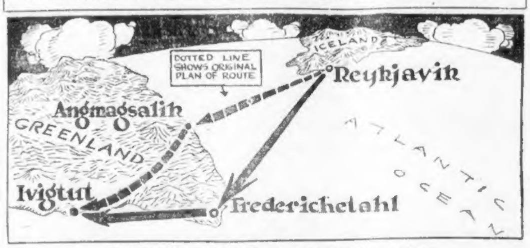

Dist. Atty. Reading today visited the home of Dr. Thiery to inspect the room in which Noble was killed. He was accompanied by State Detective John Stokes, and later they planned to visit Thiery at the hospital.

Reading's visit was by way of preparation for the grand jury session which begins on September 3.

Dr. Thiery has made rapid recovery following his attempt at suicide, and will be discharged from the hospital early next week. He will be taken to East Cambridge and arraigned, and after that will be confined in the hospital at East Cambridge jail.

Mr. Reading said today that he was not contemplating demanding an investigation of Thiery's suicide attempt.

DROWNS OFF SKIFF IN HEART ATTACK

North Bay, Ont., Aug. 20.—The body of J. Z. Gross, city commissioner and former mayor of Harrisburg, Pa., who was drowned while fishing in the Big French River, was brought here today for removal to Harrisburg for burial. Doctors, after an autopsy, declared that Gross had died of heart disease, and surmised that he had fallen from his skiff.

MOTOR FIRE ENGINES TIED UP BY TRAFFIC

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 21.—"In spite of motorized fire apparatus, the firemen today cannot reach a blaze as quickly as in the old days of the horse-drawn vehicles, due to the ever-increasing traffic congestion," said Chief Ross B. Davis, Philadelphia, today at the International Association of Fire Engineers' convention. The only solution of the problem, in Chief Davis' opinion, is the erection of huge municipal garages.

Two Held With Stolen Car

Providence, Aug. 21.—Chief Inspector Ahern today wired the Portchester, N. Y., police to hold for extradition Leo Turgeon and Adelbert Lothrop of this city, held there with a stolen automobile.

SAYS LEOPOLD MISSED CHANCE TO HIDE CRIME

Body of Franks Would Not Have Been Found but for Slip, State Declares

Chicago, Aug. 21 (A.P.)—Failure to hide effectually the body of Robert Franks was the breaking point in the plot of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, according to the State's analysis of the crime given today before Judge Caverly by Joseph Savage, assistant State's attorney.

Savage declared that if Leopold had forced the body well into the culvert instead of pushing it with his foot, it would not have been found.

"Leopold left the car less than twenty minutes after he had placed the body in that pipe, telephoned to his sweetheart, a highly respected young woman of this community," said Mr. Savage.

WORKED WITH CAUTION.

The burning of the clothes of Bobby Franks was described. "To show you how cautious they were in this plan," Savage continued, "they removed from the clothing a class pin and a buckle and set aside the shoes because they knew these objects would not burn."

The mailing of the ransom letter and the throwing away of the chisel were described.

Further attempts to obtain the $10,000 ransom from Bobby's father were described.

"They told Mr. Franks in the letter that 'this is a strictly commercial proposition,' but they didn't even play fair on that," he shouted. "They could have had the money without taking life and the proof is that Mr. Franks went to a bank and got the money and prepared it for delivery to these fiends."

The defendants paid more attention to their own attorneys than to Mr. Savage, as the latter told of this phase of the crime. They talked with Mr. Darrow and looked over Benjamin Bachrach's shoulder as the latter made notes.

LOEB WANTED MONEY.

Savage emphasized that it was Loeb who wished to go ahead with the attempt to get the money, but that Leopold dissuaded him.

Savage asserted that Leopold and Loeb had drawn their plans so fine that if the father had followed directions and gone to a drug store in a cab furnished by the kidnapers, he would have been sent scurrying to a railroad depot, there to board a train, due to leave a few minutes later.

In the parlor car, the boys had placed a letter addressed to Mr. Franks and giving full directions on how to throw the money from the train.

"It was a coldly intellectual plan, devilish in its deliberation," said Savage. "They would not have been apprehended in 100,000 years."

Father of Franks Asks Mercy for Boys Who Asked $8,000

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Jacob Franks, father of Robert Franks, for whose slayers, Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, Mr. Franks has advocated death, today asked mercy for the eleven-year-old and nineteen-year-old brothers, Earl and Fielding Smith, who were arrested after sending him two extortion letters.

Franks had a long talk with the boys who confessed they had written the letters demanding $8,000 or threatening death to Mrs. Franks and her daughter.

SHINBONE GRAFTED TO MAN'S BACKBONE

Baltimore, Aug. 21 (Universal)—A piece of bone cut from the skin of a patient at Johns Hopkins Hospital has been grafted to his backbone to replace a vertebra crushed three years ago in an automobile accident. Surgeons, who examined the repair work, declared there is every indication both spine and leg would be as good as ever within a few weeks.

The man whose shin was called into service to mend his spine is Forrest Wieford of Newport, W. Va. A vertebra at the waistline, just above the level of the hips, was removed in a delicate operation.

DAVIS WILL DELIVER PRELIMINARY SPEECHES

Washington, Aug. 21.—A new system of presidential campaigning has been adopted by John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee, after consulting with his board of strategy. The program is for the candidate to deliver a series of six or eight carefully-prepared speeches, setting forth in detail the main issues as he sees them, before the opening of the general campaign.

Mr. Davis will interpret the party platform and add his own personal views and pledges.

CAPTURED PRISONER HAS BLOOD POISON IN WOUND

Concord, N. H., Aug. 21.—Physicians attending George L. Hause, held at the county jail for the murder of Moses Goldberg, decided today that he has developed blood poisoning in the wound he suffered when captured Sunday after a sensational escape. His trial is set for the first of November.

League Observer From No. Carolina Arrives at Geneva

Geneva, Aug. 21.—The sovereign State of North Carolina has taken a hand in the tangle of international politics. Philips Henry of North Carolina has arrived here and placed on file with the Secretary of the League of Nations his credentials as special commissioner and unofficial observer of the League for North Carolina.

His presence here is interpreted as an indication of dissatisfaction in North Carolina with the United States government's refusal to join the League.

COPS 'FIXED IT' SAY ACCUSED AUTOISTS

Two of the forty-eight defendants in Lynn Court today for automobile law violations in Swampscott, surprised Judge O'Brien by stating their cases had been "fixed" by the police.

William J. McClure of No. 73 Carlisle street, Lowell, appearing for speeding, said the policeman who summoned him had "fixed" the case.

"The information hasn't reached me yet," said the court. "It will cost you $10." McClure paid.

Ten minutes later Reginald A. Prior of Clifton avenue, Marblehead, charged with parking without lights, said the policeman who tagged him told him there was no reason for appearing in court.

"Well, you're here," said Judge O'Brien, "and it will cost you $2."

2 SOMERVILLE GIRLS 'HELD ON RUM SHIP'

Portland, Me., Aug. 21.—Two girls from Somerville, Mass., are held captive on a rum runner off the Maine coast, if a scribbled note found in a whiskey bottle floating at the mouth of the Kennebec River is to be believed. Officials are inclined to believe it is the work of a practical joker.

The note, signed Mary Hingham, giving Thomas Hingham of Somerville, Mass., address General Delivery, as her father, tells of kidnaping and virtual slavery. No dates are mentioned. Roy A. Donnell, proprietor of the Blue Bird Farm at Woolwich, opposite Bath, on the Kennebec, found the note three days ago and has forwarded it to a local newspaper.

No Thomas Hingham or any family by that name could be found in a perusal of the Somerville city and telephone directories last night. The Police of Somerville are investigating, without knowledge of such a man. The post office authorities will be appealed to today.

WEST END MAN SAYS GIRLS STOLE FURNITURE

John Devonis is "all done with women," he told the police yesterday after they had recovered the furnishings for his five rooms, which had been stolen from his apartment at No. 23 Willard street, West End, by "Vera" and "Pauline," as a climax to a real party.

Vera and Pauline slipped a sleeping powder into his drink, he said. And while he was working off a seventy-two-hour sleep, they took every stick of furniture out of his apartment and carried it off, leaving nothing but dust.

FERNALD CALLS WATSON TO AID G. O. P. IN MAINE

Washington, Aug. 21.—Without consulting the Republican National Committee Senator Bert M. Fernald of Maine, sent a request to Senator James E. Watson of Indiana urging him to rush to the rescue of the Republican ticket in Maine and make a series of speeches in that State. Fernald specifically asked Watson to make a speech at a rally in Lewiston September 5, but urged him, if possible, to "spend a full week in the State."

MOVIE VOTE [...] IN NEW [...]

New York, Aug [...] (Universal).—New York faces a movie strike.

More than 1,000 members of Motion Picture Machine Operators Union No. 306, voted to quit work on August 31, when the existing contract with the theatre owners expires.

According to union leaders the strike vote is the outcome of the refusal of the owners to continue negotiations on the proposed wage scale.

The wage scale submitted by the union was rejected by the proprietors of motion picture theatres several days ago, but the negotiations were reopened. It was asserted that the union demanded increases in wages ranging from 10 to 50 per cent. of present pay and the closed shop.

The strike is expected to affect the moving picture theatres in Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cincinnati, Syracuse, St. Louis and Washington.

HUB RUNAWAY BOYS ARE CAUGHT AT LYNN

Thomas and William Hebbe, thirteen and eleven years old, sons of Thomas Hebbe of No. 12 Cottage street, Charlestown, tired of their home surroundings and regular playmates yesterday and decided to pay a visit to their aunt, Mrs. Mary Hayes of Portland street, Portland, Me.

So they boarded the Portland express at the North Station. A brakeman found one under a seat and the other in a wash room soon after the train got under way.

Neither had any money, but in their posession were two stamped envelopes addressed to their mother, each envelope contained a letter telling that they were well and happy and after a visit to their aunt would return home in time for the opening of school.

The matter will probably be settled at a special town meeting.

Letters which Mrs. Norton claims she received from Heckel are filled with protestations of his love. Under date of August 30, 1921, one says:

"I am not an old fool and no one can pull my leg. I have fought myself shy of women and have had three sweethearts in 27 years. All three are happily married, and I have always been friends with them and their husbands, even helping them in business; but once they were married I broke off intimate relations with them.

"Now do you believe that I have been on the level and want to treat you likewise?"

A bombardment of letters continued during September, 1921. One, on Hotel Astor stationery to "Laura Dear," said he was terribly disappointed when she did not keep a tryst at the hotel, where he said he had registered as "Mr. and Mrs. B." so as to save her embarrassment. To this he added:

"I know I shall not sleep all night pining for you. Too bad. Have I not been good, patient and considerate of you?

"Your heartbroken Uncle George."

CHARGES FRAMEUP IN DEATH CASE

EDYTHE STERLING
Former leading woman for Harry Carey in Western films, who declares "Kid" McCoy, once her sweetheart, is victim of plot in alleged murder of Mrs. Mors in Los Angeles.

ACTRESS SAYS M'COY IS VICTIM

Norman Selby ("Kid McCoy") is a victim of a frameup and somebody on the "inside" in Los Angeles knows the facts that would clear him of guilt in the Mors murder mystery, declares Edythe Sterling of Los Angeles.

Miss Sterling, former leading woman for Harry Carey in Western film plays, is visiting Hyannis. She is to join the Selznick forces soon in New York.

She said she had "kept company" with McCoy six years ago and that she gladly would go on the witness stand to help him.

"I know he did not murder Mrs. Mors," said Miss Sterling.

"I suppose there are a great many people ready to believe that he is guilty without hearing his story. But there is not a vicious thought in his entire body.

"He is big hearted, well liked and always wore a wonderful smile. He was not good looking but he had a personality and disposition that made him friends with both prince and pauper.

"I have noticed they have started a defense fund to aid McCoy in his trial and I wish to say now, without being boastful, that I have already wired on my contribution to Uncle Fenris, McCoy's former manager who is active in the "Kid's" behalf during his trouble.

Miss Sterling is spending her first Summer in New England and she is delighted with the South Shore and also with Boston. She is having a rest here and expects a busy season on the silver screen.

Mrs. Mors' Body Is Shipped to New York

Los Angeles, Aug. 21 (I.N.S.)—Encased in the most elaborate casket her former husband could find in Los Angeles, Mrs. Teresa Mors' body was sent today to New York City for burial.

Albert A. Mors, who was divorced a week before she was shot to death, wished to have the body cremated. Objection was made by Mrs. Claire Weinston, Mrs. Mors' mother, who will receive the body in New York.

United States customs officials launched an investigation to determine the complete history of rare jewels owned by Mrs. Mors. The object of the search is to determine whether duty was paid on jewels worth more than $100,000 owned by Mrs. Mors. New York customs officials have requested the investigation.

Eight or ten additional pieces of jewelry and a valuable pin with three large emeralds and studded with diamonds, are sought in the check, Los Angeles customs officials said.

WANT AIR QUIET IN CASE MARS BROADCASTS

Professor Todd Believes "Operators in the Planet May Try to Communicate"

Washington, Aug 21.—Indications are that government radio experts in charge of the various executive departments will find themselves in divided schools on the question of having their operators stand by and listen in for "messages from Mars" when that planet approaches nearest the earth.

Professor David Todd, formerly head astronomer of Amherst, believes that wireless operators on Mars may try to communicate with the earth and is seeking to have all sending stations of government and commercial control remain silent for brief intervals as the visiting planet approaches.

He has requested the State Department to seek co-operation from Latin-American and European governments, but has found officials there skeptical.

The Navy Department has declined to silence its stations and the Commerce Department has decided to issue no instructions to commercial stations.

The War Department, however, has ordered its operators to keep quiet a few minutes each day and prepare to intercept anything in the air which, in their opinion, might be coming from Mars.

The acquisition of the Lawrence estate marks the third extensive purchase of property by Chandler & Company during the past year and a half. The Lawrence Building was purchased six months ago and their New York Buying and Research Office recently extended its office space.

Executives of the concern declare their newest purchase to be based on an estimate of future prosperous business conditions here.

North Shore Folk to Present "Living Magazine" Tomorrow

By BETTY ALDEN

"ANIMATED MAGAZINE" is what a band of enterprising young matrons along the North Shore have dubbed the unique affair which they are staging tomorrow night.

The Oceanside Hotel at Magnolia is to be the scene of the affair, and I venture that few of the shore colonists will fail to attend. First, because two highly deserving charities will benefit the Infants' Hospital in Boston and the North Shore Babies' Hospital in Salem—and secondly because the names of those arranging the affair just naturally spell success.

On the committee are such well-known folk as Mrs. Oliver Ames, Jr.; Mrs. Theodore Frothingham, Jr.; Mrs. Wallace Goodrich, Mrs. Henry P. King, Jr.; Mrs. Henry Pratt McKean, Mrs. Richard S. Lovering, Mrs. Jonathan S. Raymond and Mrs. Alvin Sortwell.

When it comes to the Infant's Hospital, both Mrs. Ames and Mrs. Frothingham are veritable feminine Gallahads. Many a function have they arranged to benefit this worthy institution, and many a silver coin has jingled its way into the hospital's coffers because of their ingenuity and indefatigable interest.

A WELL-KNOWN magazine catering to the ultra-smart, and dealing particularly with fashion, will be presented from cover to cover tomorrow night.

Twenty-seven Magnolia shops will be represented, and the North shore belles will portray whatever the picture calls for, whether it be a debutante, a bride or her sport-loving sister. Pictures of exquisitely appointed rooms—which are quite a feature of this exclusive publication—will also be presented.

Tickets for the affair, which will be followed by a supper dance, may be obtained by Mrs. Samuel Eliot of Manchester.

A few of the patronesses sponsoring the entertainment are Mrs. William D. Schier, Mrs. Charles F. Ayer, Mrs. John L. Saltonstall, Mrs. Francis B. Crowninshield, Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth, Mrs. John S. Lawrence, Mrs. George von L. Meyer, Jr.; Mrs. Stephen V. R. Crosby, Mrs. Francis I. Amroy and Mrs. J. A. Lowell Blake.

MEMBERS of their young-married coterie will be sorry to hear that Mr. and Mrs. Jerome C. Greene (Mary Cram) have just moved to Scardsale, N. Y., to make their home there permanently.

Following the marriage of the young people, taking place nearly two years ago at the Sudbury country home of the Crams, Mr. and Mrs. Greene established their lares and penates out Cambridge way at No. 1 Waterhouse street.

The former Mary Cram is the daughter of Ralph Adams Cram, the noted Boston architect, while her husband, a Harvard '22 man, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome D. Greene of New York.

MRS. OLIVER WOLCOTT

The former Sybil Appleton was prominent among the younger matrons of the North Shore and was of the smart group sponsoring the horse show held at Hamilton.

DICK CROKER'S VILLA POORLY FURNISHED

West Palm Beach, Fla., Aug. 21.—The report of appraisers of the estate of Richard Croker, Sr., filed in court, shows but $2,885 worth of personal property of the former Tammany leader. Practically all of this is furnishings in the Croker Palm Beach estate.

According to the appraisers' report, they found the Croker villa "simply furnished." No objects of art or other valuables, common to other Palm Beach palaces, were found.

WANTS ARGENTINE TO BACK LEAGUE COVENANT

Buenos Aires, Aug. 21.—President Alvear has again messaged Congress asking sanction for Argentina's adherence to the League of Nations covenant, in view of the coming League Assembly meeting in Geneva, to which Argentina has been invited to send delegates.

The message recalls similar requests to Congress, on June 6 last, and June 23, 1923, and says the government is unable to act without a Congressional resolution on the subject.

GIRL ACCUSES RIDING MASTER FOR SOCIETY

Declares He Stole $1,000 Ring After Drinking Party in Academy

By Universal Service

New York, Aug. 21.—James Nestor, riding master of the fashionable Durland's academy and trusted companion of men and women prominent in social and business life, was held in $1,000 bail by Magistrate Levine, charged with the theft of a diamond ring.

Many noted men and women were ready to testify to Nestor's good reputation and Magistrate Levine seemed loth to entertain the charge of Miss Cecelia Stringfellow. But she insisted and to the amazement of many patrons of the riding academy told a wierd story of a drinking party in Nestor's office in the academy one afternoon about three weeks ago.

Miss Stringfellow is secretary to an architect. She owns a horse which she keeps in Durland's academy. On the afternoon in question, she said she took several drinks with Nestor and, becoming drowsy, fell asleep on a couch. When she awoke, three diamond rings, valued in all at about $1,000, were gone. Later she telephoned to the academy and two rings were returned, but she says, she has been unable to recover the third.

Nestor on the stand denied knowledge of the rings, saying Miss Stringfellow had invited him to have a few drinks from a bottle she had.

James Ahearn, night watchman at Durland's, who was arraigned with Nestor, declared he found Miss Stringfellow when he was making his rounds that night. After she had gone, he said, he discovered two rings on the washstand. These were returned to her. He denies having seen a third ring.

Child Believes Her Prayers Saved Father's Life

Philadelphia, Aug. 21.—Four-year-old Catherine Buckley is sure her prayers are responsible for the remarkable recovery of her father from a six weeks' siege of pleurisy.

She heard the doctor report there was almost no hope for her father.

"I'm going to church to pray for daddy," she announced, and scampered to St. Stephens Church, a block away.

But she couldn't get in. So she knelt on the stone steps, clasped her hands and prayed.

More than 150 weapons of all descriptions are to be disposed of.

SET LANDMARK FOR SPITE, IS CHARGE

Burning of Salem, N. H., House Is Work of Incendiary, Police Assert

Lawrence, Aug. 21.—Police say the fire which destroyed the Ezra Hall residence at Hall's Crossing in Salem, N. H., one of the ancient landmarks of the district, was set for spite.

A prominent citizen of Salem is to be arrested within the next thirty-six hours. He has been questioned. Mr. Hall is eighty years old. He was born in the old house.

When it was burned he refused to leave the homestead, and made up his bed under an oak tree at the site.

"All my days this old place has sheltered me, and I won't leave now," he said.

A neighbor prevailed upon him by friendly violence and he is quartered with the neighbor now.

Situated in the rear of the old Rockingham racetrack, the house was a large, rambling affair, built in the days when carpenters were artists instead of artisans.

Wainscoating and panelling which were the despair of modern builders decorated the interior.

It was two and one-half stories high, and was built in 1725, according to records.

There were relics of historical and sentimental value, now valued more highly by the eccentric owner than gold, but he wore when he was twenty, and a picture of his wife who died many years ago.

The Halls have lived in the house ever since it was built.

At first Mr. Hall declined to make a legal complaint against the man suspected of firing the old house.

"I'm eighty years old, but I'll brain him when I find him," he declared. Eventually he was prevailed upon to let the law take its course.

DAWES TO TELL UNION STAND IN AUGUSTA

Declines to Make a Stump Speech at Station in New York; Ducks Movie Men

New York, Aug. 21.—Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for Vice-President, will make known his attitude toward trade unions in his speech at Augusta next Saturday, in which he will open the Republican campaign in Maine.

He announced this between trains at the Grand Central station today in response to the question of one of several newspapermen who sought to interview him before he left for Westbrook, Conn.

"Do you wish to say anything concerning reports that you are unfriendly to trade unions?" he was asked.

"You will find all that in my Augusta speech," he replied. "Nobody who reads my speeches is going to have any doubt as to where I stand, but I'm not going to make any stump speeches on railway platforms."

Dawes posed for the "stiff" cameramen graciously enough, but refused to go into the waiting room to permit the motion picture newsmen to grind their cameras at him.

FIGHTS TAXI DRIVER AS HIS WORKERS STRIKE

Today wasn't so good for Jack Freeman, garment manufacturer of No. 40 Harrison avenue.

He started the day wrong by getting into an argument over fare with Benjamin Averbach, a taxi driver, of No. 71 Willow Wood street, Dorchester. The argument developed into a fist fight and both landed in Municipal Court. While Freeman was in court, his employes walked out as part of the garment workers' strike.

ROUTE OF THIEVES AND PURSUERS

The four men who robbed Skinner's jewelry store ran their machine over the streets, shown in the above diagram, and were pursued by police in unmarkered autos, many private citizens and taxicabs. Above, left, Traffic Officer Edward J. McGee, who joined in the hunt, and Miss Amy Conway, who was passing the jewelry store at the time and was knocked down by the thieves. At right, Joseph Sweeney, held by police. Large photo is of Mrs. Naomi Sweeney, seized in hotel room in which much jewelry and two guns were found.

GIRL, MAN AND JEWELS ARE SEIZED

another man, both armed, entered his pawnshop about 9.45 a. m. Tuesday, forced him to open the safe, took $125, and $1,500 worth of jewelry, tied him up, threw him in a back room and fled. He also identified some of the jewelry as having been stolen from him at that time.

The girl was not connected with the holdup by Mr. Sonnabend, but the police continued to hold her.

In the meantime police inspectors, headed by Inspector Stephen Fisher, together with Pinkertons, are prosecuting a search for the five men who robbed the Skinner store. They have a list of the jewels stolen, together with good descriptions of several of the men, and the automobile in which they escaped.

TWO PATROLMEN UP ON SERIOUS CHARGES

Two patrolmen were on trial today before a board of police captains.

Officer Walter T. Hallett of Division 10, Roxbury, was upon a charge of assault and battery on Lillian Storm of Everett. Storm claimed that while standing on Tremont st., waiting for a car, Hallett hit him, knocked his hat off and kicked him in the stomach after telling him to move on. Hallett denied the charges, claiming Storm slipped and fell.

Patrolman William J. Boyd of Division 12, Jamaica Plain, was charged with intoxication. A physician pronounced him drunk.

POISON IVY NOW IN SEASON, SO WATCH OUT

Beware of Vines and Triple Leaf Plant that Spreads Terror

"Leaves three, let it be."

General as that admonition may be, authorities agree that in the absence of real familiarity with the poison ivy plant, its observance would do away with the painful and sometimes serious effects of contact with this deceptively attractive vine.

This is the season at which the rascally three-leaved ivy attains its fullest and most alluring luxuriance—and plays its worst havoc with those careless or unsuspecting ones who handle or touch it.

Poison ivy is found almost everywhere. It is encountered as far north as Nova Scotia, as far south as Florida and Texas, and as far west as Utah and British Columbia. It takes all positions. Sometimes it grows erect, as much as three feet high; often it is prostrate and trailing; still oftener it is climbing.

It runs profusely along fences and the edges of paths and roadways. It scrambles over rocks and walls. It climbs posts and trees, and mixes with other shrubbery so that it often escapes even the trained eye.

It may always be recognized, notwithstanding, by its leaves, which are divided into three leaflets, and, in some varieties, by its whitish, waxy fruits, which look somewhat like mistletoe berries. The Virginia creeper—as harmless as it is attractive—is easy to distinguish from the poison ivy, for the creeper always puts forth its leaves in clusters of five.

Poison ivy begins to blossom in May and June, putting out small yellowish-green flowers, which are arranged in densely clustered spikes. Toward Fall, at about this season, these flowers develop into smooth white, wax-like berries that often last all Winter, while the ivy leaves—shining, green, short-stemmed and oval-pointed—take on a rich bronze sheen that makes them doubly attractive.

Perhaps the best way to learn to recognize the plant unfailingly is to study the pictures which will be found in any good encyclopaedia or large dictionary. A few moments thus devoted may well save the investor as many days of acute discomfort.

The effects of poison ivy are—first, a slight itching, then a reddening of the skin, which in turn develops into myriad small burning blisters. If the victim carries out his natural impulse to rub or scratch the reddened or blistered areas, the skin is broken and the infection deepens and spreads. Not infrequently the result is a period in bed and a call for the doctor.

Even when the results are less severe, the blisters may become extensive and the affected areas swollen. The infection is easily transmitted from one part of the body to another, and one of the commonest of the more serious results occurs when it is carried to the eyes by hands which have been infected or which have touched affected parts.

Some persons are so sensitive to the poisonous exudate of the three-leaved ivy they are infected by contact with garments which have touched the plant. The oil is so persistent that shoes have been known to spread the poison a year after contamination. There have been many instances in which smoke from burning ivy has carried the poison on the tiny particles of dust and produced infection. In the cases of persons who have been infected merely from being in the vicinity of the plant without having touched it, experiments have shown that the poison probably was carried on dust blown from the leaves.

Medical literature shows there are more than 200 "remedies" and "cures" which at one time or another have been described as efficient. Some of them undoubtedly are; others probably are not. Some apparently are efficacious with some persons and not with others. In any event, prevention, or preventive measures, always are much more satisfactory than any cure, however efficient.

HUB RUNAWAY BOYS CAUGHT AT LYNN

Brakeman Finds Young Chums Hiding in Coach

Thomas and William Hebbe, thirteen and eleven years old, sons of Thomas Hebbe of No. 12 Cottage street, Charlestown, tired of their home surroundings and regular playmates yesterday and decided to pay a visit to their aunt, Mrs. Mary Hayes of Portland street, Portland, Me.

So they boarded the Portland express at the North Station. A brakeman found one under a seat and the other in a wash room soon after the train got under way.

On arrival in Lynn the two boys were turned over to patrolman Charles Henderson. The boys talked freely and displayed their worldly goods, made up for two home-made beef sandwiches, an army canteen filled with water, some paper drinking cups, a knapsack containing a small cooking outfit, plates, cups, knives and folks, saucepans, comb and brush and a small Bible.

Neither had any money, but in their possession were two stamped envelopes addressed to their mother, each envelope contained a letter telling that they were well and happy and after a visit to their aunt would return home in time for the opening of school.

The last promise was kept, as the boys' father arrived at the Lynn police station and started with his sons for their home in Charlestown.

WEST END MAN SAYS GIRLS STOLE FURNITURE

John Devonis is "all done with women," he told the police yesterday after they had recovered the furnishings for his five rooms, which had been stolen from his apartment at No. 23 Willard street, West End, by "Vera" and "Pauline," as a climax to a real party.

Vera and Pauline slipped a sleeping powder into his drink, he said. And while he was working off a seventy-two-hour sleep, they took every stick of furniture out of his apartment and carried it off, leaving nothing but dust.

Fernald specifically asked Watson to make a speech at a rally in Lewiston September 5, but urged him, if possible, to "spend a full week in the State."

ROMANTIC SEA DRAMA HERE NEXT WEEK

"The Sea Hawk" a Spectacular Film, Billed at Symphony Hall

Heralded as the most pretentious and active romantic sea drama yet to make its way to the screen, Frank Lloyd's "The Sea Hawk," a First National picture, with Milton Sills in the title role, will be shown at Symphony Hall, beginning next Monday.

"The Sea Hawk" has seen more than six months in the course of production, and for seven weeks the entire company, numbering over a thousand men and women, made their camp at Santa Catalina Island and on the high seas.

Four ancient ships, two galleys, rowed by 200 slaves each, were constructed especially for the large naval scenes at a cost of more than $275,000, and the princesses' wardrobe for the attraction necessitated, it is stated, an investment exceeding $55,000 alone. An appropriate prologue and musical setting have been arranged for the Symphony showing.

EDWARDS RAPS PREJUDICE OF AUDITOR

Declares State Official Unfit for Office in Legion Report

Pittsfield, Aug. 21.—Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, retiring commander of the Massachusetts Department, American Legion, in his report to be read at the Legion's convention here today, denounced the state auditor of Massachusetts as flagrantly prejudiced against World War veterans.

He further bounds the auditor, who is a candidate for reelection, as unfit and unworthy of the vote of any ex-service man or any other citizen who believes in the Constitution of the United States.

ACTIVE IN POLITICS.

Asserting that every line of helpful legislation for the unemployed was passed "only under the whip and lash of Legion influence," General Edwards makes an earnest appeal to the Legion as a body to take an active part in public politics, not on party lines, but on questions of national welfare.

He advocates the use of Legion votes against political candidates and officeholders who have acted against ex-service men on account of other influence than conscience or honest opinion.

YEARLY "POPPY DAY."

General Edwards urges a "Poppy Day" drive each year, and says:

"I am convinced that the Legion must for the present, paid funds for welfare. The public now knows that we have to make public appeals. The poppy is the official flower of the Legion. It means help to comrades and their families. We should have a public drive every year, the proceeds of which should be used only for welfare.

He would have the office of adjutant made appointive.

"If the bonus bill, passed 'only after a desperate and gruelling fight by the veterans,' General Edwards declares 'the least said now the better.' He urges ex-service men to allow Congress to do as it sees fit with the measure "without suggestion or cavil."

Gen. C. R. Edwards J. W. Reth

F. J. Good W. J. Maginnis

"Our opponents have predicted that we would not be satisfied with anything but cash. Let us be on our guard that we do nothing to furnish ammunition to our enemies that our fight was for anything but a principle," he says.

The candidacy of Leo M. Harlow of North Easton for State commander will be contested by John W. Reth of Roslindale, past senior vice commander. Frank Good of Cambridge is unopposed for first vice commander. William C. McGinnis of Lawrence is the only announced candidate for second vice commander. Six men have entered the contest for third vice commander.

Leo A. Spillane, the adjutant of the department since its founding, will be opposed by Lawrence F. Nugent, a rehabilitated veteran of the 101st Infantry.

South Carolina City Suspends Trade to Honor Negro

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 21.—Columbia today, officially and privately, mourned the passing of "Uncle Jaggers," 93-year-old negro preacher, who for three-quarters of a century has held the love and respect of high and lowly, white and black. He was born in slavery.

Mayor W. A. Coleman, by proclamation, set aside thirty minutes, the time of the funeral for suspension of business activities throughout the city, and representatives of all walks of life, from bootblack to most prominent citizen, arranged his affairs to enable him to pay tribute to the negro's memory. A fund has been started for erection of a memorial in his honor.

HERRIOT BOOED IN SPEECH TO CHAMBER

Paris, Aug. 21.—(A.P.)—Premier Herriot was acclaimed by his supporters and booed by the Communists and deputies of the extreme right for five minutes when he faced the Chamber today and began reading his declaration on the results achieved at the international conference in London for launching the Dawes reparation program.

Communists cried "amnesty" and hissed lustily. The Communist deputy, Henri Marty, led the catcalls and booing. M. Marty held aloft a banner bearing the phrase "another crime."

Great enthusiasm was displayed when M. Herriot declared the application of the Dawes plan would dissipate the war spirit, and when he told of France's horror at the thought of war.

The premier was applauded when he said he could not refuse the Dawes plan, which was based on cooperation and when he emphasized the importance of arbitration.

He was interrupted by the Communists who cried: "Down with war!" and "Long live peace."

Marx to Force Dawes Plan Through Reichstag

Berlin, Aug. 21 (I.N.S.).—"In the event the Dawes plan fails to find a two-thirds majority in the Reichstag, the German government is determined to use all constitutional means to force its acceptance in order that the door may not be slammed against further negotiations with the allies," Chancellor Marx told the Reichstag Foreign Relations Committee today.

GEN. HARBORD WARNS OF FOUR 'WAR GIANTS'

Sees Possible Aggression by Russia, Germany, China and Japan

Chautauqua, N. Y., Aug. 21.—"Giants are stirring restlessly in their slumbers and may be dreaming dreams," warned Major-General James G. Harbord, former deputy chief of staff of the army today, in urging armament for defence only, a non-partisan, consistent foreign policy and co-operation with other nations of the world for disarmament.

He was speaking on "disarmament and security" at the Institute on International Relations.

MAY HAVE LOST JAPAN.

General Harbord declared Russia and Germany would not remain content to be excluded from the Far East and that "our unhappy manner of doing the thing we had a right to do may have lost us the warm friendship of Japan."

He pointed out that an alliance of the three nations is not an impossibility, and if a German-Russian-Chinese-Japanese combination came about, it would be serious for the world.

"American armaments have never been a real factor in either the cultivation or prevention of war except when they have been inadequate. They have encouraged stronger powers to presume upon our supposed weakness."

ARMAMENT QUIETING.

"It is for that reason that most military men who have studied history are of the opinion that far from being a cause of war, adequate American armaments would tend to quiet any international situation.

"But when it comes to the world, exclusive of the American continent, it must be admitted that a competitive growth of armament breeds a feeling of international insecurity. In close contiguity there is little difference between what is needed to defend you and that which could be used to intimidate your next door neighbor."

HOTEL "FIRES" TECH STUDENT AND FIANCEE

The Summer romance of 20-year-old Joseph Corcoran, Dorchester Technology student, and Miss May Blanchard Hall, Cambridge widow, is all shot to pieces.

Corcoran's irate parents started the disintegrating process, and the management of the Cleaveland Hotel, Magnolia, where both were employed, applied the finishing touches by discharging them.

The young man, who enters Technology shortly, was employed as an assistant electrician and Mrs. Hall, who admits to 26 years and one child, as assistant housekeeper.

Their acquaintanceship began last June and ripened in the romantic atmosphere of Magnolia, until a few days ago when they decided to get married.

Unfortunately young Corcoran was not of age, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Corcoran of No. 56 Corcoran avenue, Dorchester, learned of the project.

They landed heavily on the plan, with the result that the marriage was called off. Investigation revealed that young Corcoran had been spending money lavishly on Mrs. Hall, who, according to fellow employes, has a son as old as her intended husband.

It was also learned that the woman claimed to be engaged to a Boston man, but coyly explained she "God Corcoran so much she would break the engagement. She lives at No. 23 Prospect street, Cambridge.

CANARY BIRDS TURNED INTO "NIGHTINGALES"

Bremerhaven, Germany, Aug. 21.—By use of the phonograph records, canary birds here have been taught to sing like nightingales. August Mumme of Bremerhaven, who raises canaries as a pastime, hoping to drug the song of the nightingale into the ears of the little birds almost the minute they are hatched by keeping a record running all day long and often half the night.

When the little singers are six or eight weeks old Mumme places them in a cage near real nightingales and they are not permitted to hear the singing of any other birds. Gradually, when the canaries begin to sing they quite naturally follow the notes they have always heard and, as Mumme says, feel as if they were sure-enough nightingales themselves."

The general reports that more fifty rebels were killed and fifty-four made prisoner. There were twenty-nine wounded among those captured. The Federals are continuing the pursuit.

HOW HARVARD BRIDGE HOLES IMPERIL AUTOISTS

DANGER SPOTS ABOUND AS CITIES AND STATE BOARD QUARREL

General view of Harvard bridge, with the right-hand side, going towards Cambridge, dismantled for rebuilding and paving. Trolley cars run both ways on the bridge, but it is a one-way-northbound-to-Cambridge thoroughfare for autos and other vehicles. Inset at left shows an auto nearly wrecked in one of the worst holes on the structure. Inset at right indicates another of the danger spots for motorists, while the dispute between officials of Boston and Cambridge on the one side and State Board members on the other continues, as to whether State or cities shall repair and maintain the temporary one-way thoroughfare.

BERLIN YIELDS TO DAWES PACT IN FULL

By KARL H. Von WIEGAND.

Berlin, Aug. 21 (Universal Cable)—Germany has reconciled itself to the necessity of accepting the London pact and its interpretation of the Dawes reparation scheme.

This became evident as Chancellor Marx and Foreign Minister Stresemann laid the results of the London conference before the foreign affairs committee of the Reichstag and explained why, in the face of the re-established front of the Allied and associated powers, they were unable to achieve further concessions.

There was little enthusiasm displayed by the committee but, also, there was little objection voiced.

The Nationalists who have been heretofore the most violent opponents of both the Dawes plan and the London agreement, are now mainly concerned to find a way to insure acceptance without stultifying themselves. It seems likely that, in expectation of later participation in the government, they will formally vote against those laws which require only a majority, which the government has without them, and will vote in favor of the railroad law which requires a two-thirds majority. This would insure the acceptance of the whole plan.

The Reichstag meets tomorrow and is expected to ratify the London pact in short order without much debate. The government parties will confine themselves to a short declaration of policy.

CITIES DEMAND SAFEGUARDS BY STATE

Who is going to police, maintain and repair that portion of Harvard Bridge left open to traffic while permanent construction is under way?

"The Cambridge Bridge Commission," says Chairman James A. Bailey of the Metropolitan District Commission.

"The Metropolitan District Commission," shout Mayors Curley and Quinn of Boston and Cambridge.

And while the buck-passing contest goes merrily on, that portion of the bridge open to traffic continues to be a menace to unsuspecting and unwary autoists.

STATE BOARD CLAIMS.

Chairman Bailey points out that his commission, under the Legislative act providing for the reconstruction of the bridge, is not responsible for it until the work is completed.

His statement is based on an opinion by Attorney-General Jay R. Benton.

In this opinion, the Attorney-General stated that the Cambridge Bridge Commission, on which the Mayors of Boston and Cambridge are represented, is responsible for the maintenance and repair of the bridge until it is taken over by the Metropolitan District Commission.

Chairman Bailey stated his commission had voted to close the bridge during reconstruction, because of its dangerous condition. He said at least one hole went entirely through the roadway, while the many loose planks are a constant danger to automobiles.

PROTESTED CLOSING.

The Cambridge and Boston authorities, however, protested vigorously against the entire closing of the bridge, although they refused to remedy the situation.

In consequence the left half of the bridge going north was left open during reconstruction of the other half, and was made a one-way thoroughfare for automobiles and teams, although trolley cars pass in both directions.

Because of the many loose planks and holes, accidents to automobiles are of almost daily occurrence, and there have also been a number of small fires.

The bridge is one of the main arteries of traffic to the north, and its condition is resulting in thousands of protests being made.

CITY PAYS $53,814 FOR PLAYGROUND ON LEDGE

The so-called Bleiler ledge in Roxbury has been purchased by the city as a site for a play ground. Mayor Curley has approved the taking of land by the street commissioners at Heath and Cranford streets, Roxbury. The lot 236.93 square feet and the price $53,814.05. The land is assessed at $52,000.

The awards are: Frederick Bleiler, $25,951.50; John F. Beatty, $2,536.65; and R. E. Grant, a contractor, said to represent Lomasney interests, $25,325.90.

A loan order for $85,000 for the purchase of a playground in the "vicinity of the Jefferson school" was passed by default in the city council.

CURLEY WOULD WIDEN STRANDWAY APPROACHES

Mayor Curley believes the approaches to the Strandway, South Boston should be widened and in a letter to Frederick H. Fay, chairman of the City Planning Board, he makes the following suggestions:

"That Summer street," from the Army Base to the Strandway, be widened; pave with a smooth surface Old Colony avenue, from Dorchester avenue to its terminus at Columbia Road and to widen Preble street, South Boston, conform to the present width of Southampton street at this point, which would provide a great artery from Cambridge to the Strandway.

TRUTH ABOUT NAVY ALARMS REPUBLICANS

G. O. P. Leaders Fear Admiral Rodgers Will Reveal Secrets of Arms Conference

By GEORGE W. HINMAN, JR.

Washington, Aug. 21 (Universal).—Growing alarm that Rear-Admiral W. L. Rodgers, United States Navy, might explode the carefully nurtured belief that the conference on the limitation of armament represented a triumph for American diplomacy, was felt in administration quarters here.

The news that the admiral had told the Institute of Politics at Williams College how Great Britain was really the moving force behind the conference and its record was received with real concern.

Secretary of State Hughes hopes to use the record of the conference as one of the principal Republican arguments in the coming presidential campaign.

Admiral Rodgers, who knows the real inside story of the conference negotiations, is in a position to analyze this hope by continuing to furnish important facts bearing upon the negotiations.

Admiral Rodgers is generally regarded as knowing more than any other man about what the conference did to the American navy and American commerce on the high seas. The admiral was a member of the advisory council of the conference and, as chairman of the general board of the navy, was in intimate touch with all developments.

Like other American naval officers, the admiral knows that on numerous occasions Secretary Hughes and other American delegates went more inclined to accept the views of the British than the recommendations of their own experts.

NEBRASKA INDEPENDENTS TAKE J. W. DAVIS TO TASK

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 21.—John W. Davis is still "John Wall Street Davis" in the eyes of the La Follette forces of Nebraska. Governor Bryan's effort, in his acceptance speech, to paint Mr. Davis as a horny-handed evangel of the alfalfa fields, apparently has not succeeded.

Formal reply of the La Follette generals to the Bryans brothers was made in the State convention of the La Follette forces at Grand Island.

PAT HARRISON HOLDS FIVE TO ONE LEAD

Memphis, Aug. 21.—Virtually complete unofficial returns from Tuesday's Democratic primary in Mississippi, compiled by the Commercial Appeal, show Senator Pat Harrison holding on to his lead of more than five to one over Earl Bowers, former Governor, in the Senatorial contest.

ATTACKER OF GIRL OF 5 IS HUNTED

Worcester, Aug. 21.—Catherine Grady, five, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Grady of No. 12 Crystal street while going to a store for her mother today, was enticed into St. Peter's Church at Main and Grand streets and attacked.

The little child ran home crying and told her mother that a young man took her upstairs in the church, where the assault was committed.

The police were notified and immediately started a search of the district, but were handicapped by the meagre description the child could give of her assailant.

HUB POLICE IN HUNT FOR TWO MISSING BOY

Rochester, N. H., Aug. 21.—In spite information that two boys answering their description were seen in an automobile bearing Massachusetts registration, police officers and scores of Boy Scouts were searching the woods in a driving rain for Harold McFarland and Harlan Allen, who have been missing since Monday.

Word was also sent to the Boston police to be on the lookout for them in case the boys had run away instead of having been lost in the woods, as has been supposed.

GENERAL CALL GOES OUT FOR BOOSTERS

The All New England Week Committee of which John S. Lawrence of Boston is chairman, issues a general invitation to every individual, every business firm and every organization in New England to participate in the celebration arranged for the period from Sept. 15 to 20.

The time is now short, and the committee is anxious that those organizations and business firms that have not yet made arrangements to participate with local programs of their own making, should do so at once.

Speaking at a meeting of the New England Week Committee in the new Chamber of Commerce building in Boston, Mr. Lawrence said:

"We want everybody in New England to join this movement, but no one should feel slighted because he has not received a personal invitation. It is absolutely impossible for our committee to get in touch with everybody. It cannot be done, for it would involve too much expense. A very large number of individuals and organizations of all kinds have gone ahead with programs of their own making.

"Let every individual, and every organization start a local program of his, her or its own. The New England Week movement is going forward with great strides, and we predict for it a very great success, but it cannot become too large, and we want everybody to join us."

THIRD MURDER IN NEW YORK GANG FEUD

New York, Aug. 21.—Two men were shot to death in what the police termed a resumption of the "Chicken Pullers War" which raged fiercely up to seven years ago when the authorities brought temporary peace by sending several gang leaders to the electric chair after a series of particularly violent murders.

The victims were William Young, twenty-three years old, and Edward Connelly, who were fatally shot by a band of men who operated from a taxicab in lower Eighth avenue.

"Massachusetts" School Graduates Are Guaranteed Positions

Results Count

Government figures available at the Custom House show that the Massachusetts Radio and Telegraph School has graduated more First Class Licensed Operators with better average ratings than any other Radio School in New England in the last five years.

RADIO, the coming profession, is today a big industry "short" of men. A good training puts a young man in a good paying position at the very start and is an open field for ability.

On account of the standing of this school and its marked success in training operators, its graduates are given preference by agreement with the R. C. A. and other big companies.

Day and evening courses lead to First-Class License. Special non-license courses for salesmen, experimenters and amateurs.

FINANCE

—By George Wheeler Hinman—

The Hon. Charles G. Dawes deserves thanks for making clear the real issues on which his party or any other party must win or lose this campaign. His speech of acceptance is a benefit to the people at large and a special boon to business men who will read and digest it.

The main proposition is that this is a campaign of business issues, welfare issues, prosperity issues. Mr. Dawes, in his speech, put away the League of Nations issue in the refrigerator. He politely laid the World Court issue on a shelf, from which it can be taken if needed. This will be a source of grief to perhaps 500,000 of the 41,000,000 Americans engaged in gainful occupations. To the 41,500,000 it will come as a great relief.

Apparently Mr. Dawes has grasped the fact, as every business man should grasp it, that these 41,500,000 do not care a hang for League and World Court, are not interested in the sermons and lectures and speeches in behalf of World Court and League, but are deeply interested in taxes, prices, government economy, cost of living and prosperity.

How many of them will agree with Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Dawes, how many with Mr. Davis and Mr. Bryan or with Mr. La Follette and Mr. Wheeler in their different presentations of these business issues, is not a question here. What is in question is the plain proposition that the party which gets the most votes on just these issues will win and the party that gets the least votes will lose.

The writer has gone from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Pacific to the Atlantic in the last few months and, outside of the familiar circle of propagandists and professional sentimentalists, he has not found one person in a hundred who had a word to say on World Court or League. At the same time he has not found a working man or business man who was failed to say many things about the practical issues mentioned in the forepart of the Dawes speech.

In other words business men and workingmen are more interested in their own welfare than in rainbow chasing overseas. Their votes will be cast accordingly, as they expect a greater benefit from Mr. Coolidge's ticket, or Mr. Davis' or Mr. La Follette's. That should have been plain for the last six months, but apparently Mr. Dawes is the first candidate to see and tell the truth.

Again the Dawes speech of acceptance draws in practical and business like fashion the line between the Republicans and the so-called Progressives. Recently a conspicuous politician in Washington told the writer that the good things proposed by La Follette would be adopted by the Republicans and the bad things would be rejected. Thus, he said in his partisan way, La Follette would be left to make his fight on the weakest of his issues.

When asked what these "good things" were that the Republicans would pick off the La Follette platform, he was evasive. From his Republican viewpoint he could not name one that his party would accept.

Of course, such talk tends only to confuse voters if it is intended to do so. Fortunately the Dawes speech of acceptance defeats all intentions of this sort and helps to put the big welfare issues of the campaign clearly and frankly. That is what is needed if the people are to give a clear and final decision in November regarding their views on business progress and general prosperity.

There is no effort in the Dawes speech to secure the votes of the civil liberties union, or the committee of forty-eight or the nine or ten pacifist leagues or the half dozen associations for "free speech," or the friends of Soviet Russia, or the consumers league, or the league for industrial democracy, or the trades union educational league, or the committees which would substitute the "Co-operative Commonwealth" for the United States of North America.

All these organizations are on the other side of the street. Regardless of their names, they are uniformly hostile to the Republican party, its views of business and industry and its professions concerning public welfare and employment and commercial progress. For all the purposes in question these organizations have an entirely different program and finally they present a united political front behind two national leaders whose special political object is to defeat what they regard as the "Republican reactionaries."

That is how the lines are drawn; that is the real situation, regardless of which party is right and which is wrong. So it seems the plain, honest, and businesslike thing to make this situation clear and fight out the campaign on these lines.

Confidence and certainty lie at the foundation of all national welfare, and how can there be either confidence or certainty unless in choosing their national rulers and policies the 54,000,000 voters in the United States are allowed to know what they are commending or condemning at the polls?

(B. C. Forbes is en route for Europe, there to study on the spot the world problems associated with the Dawes plan. Just what the prospective readjustment will mean for us will be told by him in this column when he resumes writing in September.)

GEN. MOTORS IN STANDARD OIL ALLIANCE

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor

Walter C. Teagle, president Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, and Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president, General Motors, announced the organization, under the laws of Delaware, of the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation, a $5,000,000 concern, in which their respective companies are equal shareholders. The new company will take over the promotion and sale of ethyl fluid in the past handled by the General Motors Company.

Walter C. Teagle

Distribution of ethyl fluid will not in any way be confined to the Standard Oil of New Jersey, or to any other single company or group of companies, the policy and purpose will be to furnish on equal terms to all gasoline marketing organizations, subject only to the limited exclusive contracts originally made by the General Motors Chemical Company for the purpose of introducing the new purpose.

Millions of dollars in lubricating oil will be saved if crank case dilution can be prevented, it is asserted in a statement accompanying an announcement that oil experts from many centers will gather at a symposium of the Petroleum Division of the American Chemical Society at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., September 8 to 13.

Leading research workers from the laboratories of industry and education will, it was stated, reveal developments in science virtually affecting both the oil and automobile industries as well as the general economic life of the nation.

Sources of waste, disclosed by organized inquiry, will be pointed out, and new lines of investigation aiming at stopping leakage, will be disclosed.

Addresses dealing with crank case dilution, now a major field of research, will be delivered by Dr. D. P. Bernard, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, and C. M. Larson, of the Sinclair Oil Refining Co.

Sales of life insurance improved materially in July over July a year ago. This improvement was shown by an 11 per cent. increase. This improvement is important because it is a business which reaches almost every county in every State, and the figures, tabulated, represent companies which have in force 88 per cent. of the total business of the country.

Total sales in July were $591,844,000, and in July a year ago, $534,012,000. Life insurance, in common with numerous other lines of business, is at this time giving evidence of "having turned the corner."

Sales for the seven months show a 10 per cent. gain for 1924. The total for this period reached $4,236,253,000.

Gains in bookings of structural steel for the second consecutive month appear to indicate that this branch of the steel trade is feeling the increased demand in which others should share shortly.

Basing its figures on the reports of steel fabricating plants, the Commerce Department announces that bookings of structural steel during July totalled 182,000 tons, compared with 171,600 in June, 153,400 in May and 130,000 tons in July, 1923.

The rate of activity of the industry in July was 70 per cent. of capacity, only 1 per cent. below the figure of last March and 20 per cent. higher than the figure of a year ago. The July percentage of capacity also was highest since March.

The present estimated capacity of structural steel fabricating plants is 250,000 tons a month. In the last year the industry has reached as high as 80 per cent. of that capacity.

PRICES MIXED IN NEW YORK TRADING

Uneven price movements characterized the New York Stock Market which was featured by bullish demonstrations in a few industrials. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe was in brisk demand, moving up 3 points to a record top at 106½.

Du Pont climbed 2½ points on buying influenced by the recent strength of General Motors, in which Du Pont owns a large interest.

Baldwin advanced 1⅜ and Southern Railway crossed 70 for the first time. Oils held fairly steady in the face of another cut in Pennsylvania crude prices.

Swift reactions in the coppers and other recent strong spots were the natural sequence of the recent rapid upswing in some of these issues.

General Electric broke 4½ points and R. H. Macy 3. Call money opened at 2 per cent.

In trading on the Boston Stock Exchange, Swift International was up 1¾. Isle Royale receded a point and Eastern Mass. St. Ry. lowered 1½. Most other changes were fractional.

Japanese 4s Sell at New 1924 High in Bond Mart

New York bond prices drifted irregularly lower in New York dealings as stiffening of time money and acceptance rates discouraged buying.

Trading was featured by a sharp break of almost 7 points in Wilson & Company convertible 7½s, apparently based on apprehensions over the recent call for deposit of these bonds in connection with the company's plan of financial readjustment. The convertible 6s declined 1½ points.

Profit-taking continued to force recession in various foreign and domestic obligations, including the French and Austrian loans and some of the coppers and speculative rail mortgages. Japanese 4s reached a new 1924 top price at 84 and Brooklyn Union Gas 7s of 1932 at 136⅝. Liberty bonds were heavy.

YOUNGMAN ADDS HIS PRAISE TO 'PLAY SAFE'

"It is with the greatest enthusiasm that I sign your 'I Play Safe' pledge for careful automobile driving," wrote William S. Youngman, candidate for State Treasurer of Massachusetts. In lauding the American's movement to reduce the number of accidents Mr. Youngman said he would do his utmost to have all the drivers who will help him in his campaign live up to the promise to be careful.

YOUNGMAN'S LETTER.

Mr. Youngman's letter follows:

Editor Boston American:

Dear Sir:

"It is with the greatest enthusiasm that I sign your 'I Play Safe Pledge' for careful automobile driving. The responsibility which a motorist has to pedestrians and fellow automobilists is increasing daily; such a campaign as yours is a vital need to bring this responsibility home to all of us.

"Enlisting in your movement has a particular significance to me at this time, when I am a candidate for the office of State Treasurer, and I hope the many other men seeking public office this Fall will at once join the 'I Play Safe Club.' The reason is this. As the political battle waxes hot, candidates rush from place to place to deliver addresses. They are pressed for time and their zeal to gather votes exaggerates in their minds the importance of their engagements. Their force their drivers to excessive speed and forget all caution. Then as election day approaches whole fleets of automobiles rush from rally to rally with mad recklessness. Each year brings a score of entirely avoidable accidents, to say nothing of the bad example.

"Therefore, not only do I join your 'I Play Safe Club' personally, but on behalf of the men and women who will be actively engaged in my campaign for State Treasurer during the next few weeks. I shall do my best to have them all live up to the promises to which I have subscribed on the enclosed pledge."

Sincerely yours,

WM. S. YOUNGMAN.

AMERICAN CAN SOLVE YOUR

Bonus Problems

ASK US!

Questions concerning the world war bonus are answered daily in this column. If you are unable to call personally at the bonus information bureau at No. 92 Summer street, mail your inquiry.

Answers are based on the most authoritative information available. However, no full legal interpretation of the bonus act has been issued.

H. W. S., Danvers.

Q.—Please tell me when money may be borrowed on insurance certificates.

A.—Under the loan privilege of the bonus law, veterans may borrow on their promissory notes, secured by their service certificates, two years after the date of the certificate, certain amounts which will be printed on the certificates.

F. E. H., Lowell.

Q.—Will you kindly tell me the amount of my bonus which I will receive? I enlisted June 3, 1917, sailed for France September 7, 1917, and returned April 19, 1919.

A.—From your length of service you undoubtedly will be entitled to the maximum credit of $625 for both home and overseas service. This credit when turned into a twenty-year paid-up insurance certificate will have a face value of about $1,600, which will be payable to you in cash at the end of twenty years.

D. M., ROXBURY.

Q.—I enlisted June 1, 1917, and was discharged July 22, 1919, with a year's overseas service. What is the amount of my bonus?

A.—You will be entitled to the maximum service credit of $625, and you will receive a twenty-year paid-up insurance policy with an approximate face value of $1,560.

J. J. D., ROXBURY.

Q.—I entered the Army May 27, 1918, sailed for France, July 8, 1918, returned to the United States, August 1, 1919, and was discharged August 7, 1919. Will my bonus be paid in cash or in insurance?

A.—Your bonus will be in the form of a paid-up insurance policy, with the approximate face value of $1,075, payable to you in cash at the end of 20 years from its date.

MRS. T. J. O'C., TAUNTON.

Q.—My brother served in the Navy from April 6, 1917, to August 26, 1917, and later died. His wife also died the same week and left two small children, now in my care. Is there anything due under the bonus law, and how can it be obtained?

A.—There is approximately $75 due under the bonus law and this will be received by the two children of your brother. It will be payable in (10) equal quarterly installments after March 1, 1925. In order to receive it, however, some relative or friend should petition the Probate Court to be appointed guardian of the children. The guardian may then make out a bonus application for the children, which should be sent to Washington, together with a copy of the Court order of the guardian's appointment, and also an affidavit by the guardian that he or she is the identical person appointed by the Court.

MANY GRADUATE FROM THE MASS. RADIO SCHOOL

Export Designers and Repair Men Furnished to Business Concerns

During the past two years the Massachusetts Radio & Telegraph School has enrolled, graduated and placed more students than any school of its kind in New England.

Heretofore the main channel of employment for radio men was the merchant marine. During the past two years the broadcasting craze which has swept and held the country has opened up a still larger field for employment and is attracting many who formerly had no special desire to follow the sea.

Manufacturing concerns need expert designers, testers and repair men. Broadcasting stations, some 600 odd, are required by law to have a properly licensed operator on watch at all times. Radio stores need salesmen and the licensed man is in constant demand as an advisory expert on radio matters.

Foreign travel has always appealed strongly to the younger generation. A government operators' license is a ticket as well as a passport to all foreign climes. A licensed radio operator travels first class and sees the world. After a few years at sea the large trans-Atlantic shore stations offer possibilities for advancement, while a few combine radio and navigation with corresponding increased remuneration. The experienced marine operator is always in demand on shore.

The Massachusetts Radio & Telegraph School, Inc., located at 18 Boylston street, is fully equipped and can quickly qualify one for a first class radio operator's license after a short course given under the personal direction of G. R. Entwhistle, its radio director, who has successfully trained commercial radio operators for the past 14 years.

Telegraphy is under the supervision of R. F. Trop.

SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE FOR MEN OF ABILITY

Wentworth Institute is filling a distinct need of industry. Its policy of co-operation with employers brings to its faculty support which assures practical and valuable instruction.

Young men who graduated five to ten years ago are now holding substantial and responsible positions in all the mechanical branches of industry.

Courses of instruction are planned and carried out by a group of experienced instructors, who are making a life study of the best methods of training young men for practical life work. This includes not only instruction in the workshop, but aims to develop character, personality and reliability. Young men in Wentworth have an opportunity to operate and experiment with valuable tools and delicate apparatus under expert guidance—a thing they never would be allowed to do in the shops of an employer.

Through the funds provided by associations of employers in several different trades, scholarships are available for worthy young men who do not find it otherwise possible to take advantage of courses. Any young man with natural mechanical ability, good health and a will to win can secure a thorough systematic training at Wentworth Institute.

NOTEWORTHY POLICY OF ESTABLISHED SCHOOL

The Graves School of 59 Temple Place, Boston, which conducts notable courses in Dressmaking, Drafting, Designing and Tailoring, opens its fall courses on September 15.

A noteworthy policy is followed in the school whereby the number of students is limited, so as to ensure every student the personal instruction of Clara Graves, the principal. The well known S. S. Taylor System of New York is using the method followed. The efficiency of the course makes it possible for students to graduate in from 6 to 8 months. After graduation, students are able to make any garment seen in fashion magazines and elsewhere.

Many of the graduates are employed by the most fashionable establishments in the city, being placed there through the co-operation of the school. Others are teaching in public schools or are in business for themselves.

NEW POSTURE CLINIC TO BE CONTINUED

Posse Normal School of Gymnastics, one of the most widely known schools of its kind in the country, is now under the direction of Harry Nisson, a son of the late Professor Nisson who took over the school in 1915.

In addition to giving correct gymnastics to the public school children, the clinic affords excellent opportunity to the Posse pupils for teaching.

VOICE CULTURE FOR EVERYONE

Mr. W. A. Paul of the William Alden Paul Studio, No. 30 Huntington avenue, Boston, is primarily a private teacher of singing, but conducts his work on school lines. Mr. Paul takes great interest in his beginners' classes, which work he adapts from a celebrated New York teacher, who believes with him that hearing others and working together is of the greatest value to the young student.

FRANKLIN GIFT STILL HELPING STUDENTS

Day Courses Next Fall to Be a Feature of Institute

Franklin Union, which is a technical institute, owes its establishment to Benjamin Franklin. Over a hundred years ago Franklin bequeathed to his native town of Boston the sum of 1,000 pounds sterling ($5,000), which was intended to be loaned at 5 per cent. to aid young "married artificers" in starting business and which, at the end of 100 years was to be divided.

At that time an industrial school and technical institute seemed to the judgment of the managers to be the public work of most general utility to the inhabitants of Boston.

20,000 BENEFITED.

The building and equipment is, therefore, the result of this bequest of Benjamin Franklin, and the land upon which the building stands was given by the city of Boston. The first step towards the maintenance fund was a donation by Mr. Andrew Carnegie.

Since the opening of the building in September, 1908, over 20,000 men have enrolled as students.

Next Monday, October 6th, the School will open Day Courses covering thoroughly the following subjects: Automobile Repair and Operation; Architectural Drafting; Industrial Chemistry; Electrical Wiring and Maintenance; Mechanical Drafting; Plumbing. These courses are planned to enable young men or women to fit readily into the present industrial world, and to provide essential principles underlying modern manufacture.

FACES DEFINITE CALL.

At the present time Franklin Union is using its building five nights a week during the Winter months and the demand for evening instruction is thus being met subject only to the limitation of space. No school has faced a more definite call for specific day instruction than Franklin Union does at the present time. None, in organizing a comparable new type of instruction has known more clearly what it is proposed to do. Needs for day training are urgent; was a large number of young men and women who get through high school today are anxious and able to spend one or two years in technical training, if there was the opportunity. This school stands ready and equipped to provide further day instructions for men or women seven years of age or over, who, for one reason or another, can or do not wish to attend a college or university.

BRINGS THE MOUNTIAN TO MOHAMMED

In 1908 LaSalle Extension University was founded by a group of business men and educators upon an idea "to carry the university to the people." At the meeting in celebration of its tenth anniversary, Chief Justice Taft characterized LaSalle as the "Ambassador of Opportunity," democratizing education so that it might be obtained by every ambitious young man.

Mr. Jesse Grant Chaplins, president of LaSalle Extension University, has not limited his efforts to the few in a college classroom when these benefits may be extended effectively to thousands by taking the university to their homes. His zeal to render a public service has made President Chaplins the master builder in this whole field. He sees the possibilities of worldwide service to humanity. His sympathetic hand literally reaches out in a desire to be helpful.

President Chaplins's zeal is in accordance with his knowledge. His confidence, his optimism, his vision, and his work are based on very definite principles and objectives. In educational practice he stands for certain very definite advanced principles and methods.

McDOWELL SYSTEM VERY SUCCESSFUL

Thousands of successful women all over the country can testify to the successful methods of the McDowell system on dressmaking and millinery.

Dressmaking, designing, dress-cutting, draughting and pattern making are each taught by women instructors thoroughly versed in their particular branch.

The remodeling of gowns is an important item in the school work, for many of the students take up the course to enable them to make their own costumes, thereby saving their individuality and ideas into their clothes.

QUICK SCHEMING IS BUSINESS ASSET

Says Educator Who Has Devoted Lifetime to the Study and Correction of This Ailment.

"Few people realize," said Samuel D. Robbins, director of the Boston Stammerers Institute, "how serious an obstacle to business success stammering really is." As Mr. Robbins was once a stammerer himself and has for years devoted himself to the curing of others, he speaks with authority. "The ability to speak quickly, clearly and distinctly is one of the foremost essentials of modern business. Time and again, students have come to us discouraged and almost ready to give up for they felt they had reached the limit of their ambitions.

CONSERVATORY IS BETTER THAN EVER

Offers Most Efficient Instruction in Practical Music

The New England Conservatory of Music was founded in Boston in 1867 by Dr. Eben Tourjee, who had previously introduced the class system of instruction in the East Greenwich Musical Institute and in the Musical Institute in Providence, Rhode Island.

From 1872 the growing needs of the Conservatory led to the purchase of an estate on Franklin Square, which occupied until the close of the school year 1902-3. At the opening of the school year 1903-3, the Conservatory took possession of its present building, which had been constructed especially for it.

FIREPROOF BUILDING.

This building is constructed on the most approved modern plans, is fireproof, and is especially adapted to the needs of a school of music.

The second floor of the building contains the musical library and a large number of class rooms. The third floor is devoted to class rooms and to the organ department, for which the Conservatory provides superior advantages.

Two-manual pipe organs are installed in the practice rooms for the use of pupils in the organ department. Two large three-manual pipe organs and one with two manuals are placed in the organ-teaching room.

EFFICIENT INSTRUCTORS.

It is primarily the aim of the Conservatory to prepare students for a professional career in some branch of the Art of Music. The Conservatory offers the most efficient instruction, both practical and theoretical, in comprehensive and systematic order. It surrounds the student with a musical atmosphere which is at once a stimulus and a discipline. It offers him instruction in the theory and practice of music and generous opportunity for public performance in solo and in ensemble.

The latest addition to the already famous faculty is the name of Richard Burgin, eminent violinist and Concert-master to the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

NOTED ARTISTS SECURED FOR EVENING CLASSES

The Alandale studios is a distinctly individual school as it maintains evening classes exclusively, and is thereby able to present a faculty of noted artists who would otherwise be unavailable for school work. One of the outstanding requirements of the school is that each member of the faculty must have had at least fifteen years experience in the profession and have held a position equivalent to that of an instructor. Among those engaged for the present session are Mr. William T. Robinson, well known for more than a decade engaged in drawing and painting and who will personally instruct a special class in oil painting.

REDDIN SCHOOL GIVES A USEFUL COURSE

The Reddin Business and Civil Service School, located on Boylston street, is one of the most pleasantly and conveniently situated schools in Boston. Its bright, airy class rooms overlook the Common and the State House, and command a view of almost the whole city.

Both day and evening classes are taught by experienced instructors. The school has devoted years to preparing students for business or civil service positions, and even the first day at the school makes students feel nearer the goal they are seeking and nearer the positions they want.

Classes are conducted with small groups of pupils, and the result of this method is that every pupil receives individual attention and his or her difficulties are promptly removed instead of hanging over from day to day as a distraction and hindrance to study and unimpeded progress.

Hickox Oldest School

In the Hickox Secretarial School the instruction is individual and the particular aims and propensities of each pupil are met and guided.

This is the oldest school of its kind in America.

Edna Campbell-Dever, the principal, spent eight years as a stenographer and secretary in New England and the West studying the many problems of secretarial work.

Commercial Art Pays

The School of Practical Art, at 711 Boylston street, Boston, which opens next month, September 2, promises, from all indications, to be filled to capacity.

The school was founded by its present director, Roy Atherton Davidson, and much of its success is due to his original method of individual instruction.

New Beauty Wrinkle

The Lampline-Nolan Training School began in 1917 and has already won for itself recognition as one of the foremost training schools for beauty culture in New England. A competent staff of teachers, adequate equipment, together with courses of study in which theory and practice are well adjusted, have contributed to the almost phenomenal success of the school.

CONTRIBUTES TO SUCCESS OF CELEBRITIES

The Colonial Film Production Company, for a continuous period of 24 years in the Colonial Theatre Building, 106 Boylston st., Suite 402, Boston, Mass., offers to its students in dramatic art, elocution and make-up, just the same method as used in stock companies and in motion picture studios.

Mr. Harry Farrell, its supervising director, during his 24 years of active service has had under his personal direction such well known people as Miss Enid Mayo, Mr. D. W. Griffith, Orane Wilbur, Robert W. Fraser, Victor Moore, Bradley Martin, Jessie Claiborne, Lottie Meaney, Thurston Vaughn, Theodore Kray.

The company has a special department in the teaching of the motion picture camera operation with actual field manoeuvers instructed by a cameraman of note.

The news, entertainment, education, and helpful services have made the Boston American the largest home-delivered newspaper in New England.

BOSTON AMERICAN

Largest Evening Circulation in New England—August 21, 1924

Charity begins at home — read the "Helping Hand" at home tonight and you can begin to help tomorrow.

"I Play Safe" Slogan Has Begun to Show Results

It is a newspaper's power of suggestion, even more than its power of assertion, that constitutes its power for good.

A little less than three weeks ago the Boston American began a safety campaign. The slogan of that campaign was, and is, "I Play Safe."

In the intervening days that slogan has become known throughout New England.

Thousands have enrolled under the "I Play Safe" sign. Tens of thousands have not. But whether they have enlisted in the crusade or not, the idea of the whole thing has been getting into the consciousness of the people.

Now comes the welcome announcement that in the last two weeks motor deaths have been falling off in Massachusetts. There were fewer last week than there were the week before; fewer week before last than there were the week before that.

For this happy improvement the Boston American does not assume credit, but undoubtedly it helped.

Power of suggestion. Hammering at the idea of safety is causing thousands who are scarcely aware of it to stop, look and listen.

It is the Psychology of Safety that the Boston American is teaching. If that psychology gets a real hold on the imaginations of the people the usual Monday morning casualty list will be smaller still.

Buy a Whole State

Big Business Could Make It Useful

A minority report of the Tariff Commission, investigating an alleged conspiracy to control the sugar output and destroy certain American interests, makes one interesting statement.

It describes American financiers combining with Canadian and other financiers to form a gigantic sugar combination of world-wide proportions. The organization is arranged OUTSIDE of United States territory and is, therefore supposedly, beyond the reach of United States courts. American interests here would carry out the plans and instructions of the outside agreement, safe from legal trouble.

That seems to open up new possibilities of exploitation. It might even pay the big concerns to buy control of some LITTLE SOVEREIGNTY, like the Principality of Monaco, or some other little country. There they could form their corporations, do their bookkeeping, divide, distribute and deposit the profits subject to their order. Organized finance, being the big power, would naturally feel that it ought to have its own little country, capital, Legislature and court SOMEWHERE on the round globe and beyond the reach of a meddling public.

Long ago it was suggested by this writer that the very rich inhabitants of the United States ought to buy the small State of Rhode Island. It wouldn't take so much money to buy all the land, and the investment would be profitable. The owners, choosing their own tenants, could carry every election, have two Senators, a number of Congressmen and own a sovereign State, with a very agreeable Summer resort, Newport, to live in, and all the authority that goes with State control and the making of a State's laws and Constitution. There need be no State inheritance tax, no State income tax, etc.

"Cheap Money"

Try to Get It

This from London: "English financiers are puzzled by the Federal Reserve Board statement that 'Europe is recovering from the war more quickly than America.'"

The statement isn't puzzling. Countries recover when money in abundance is invested in NEW enterprises, EMPLOYING LABOR, stimulating trade.

The United States buys Europe's bonds, sending money there to put men to work. Lack of employment, diminishing in EUROPE, is INCREASING in the United States.

Here men with money invest it in bonds, national, State and city, that pay no income tax.

The Argentine Republic borrows twenty million dollars from us for less than 4 per cent. interest. If any man wants to build a factory in the United States and put a thousand men to work, let him try to borrow money for that under 6 per cent. But you can get FOR TWO PER CENT. all the "call money" you want to speculate in stocks.

From one to four hundred millions will soon be sent from this country to help Germany pay reparations to Europe and Belgium and buy raw materials. The money and raw materials will be used to employ workers in Europe.

Our Secretary of State is abroad to help Europe settle her problems and get out of trouble.

Whom do you see, in the United States, trying to help THIS country in the same intelligent CONSTRUCTIVE WAY?

Not TOO Expensive

Air Mail Is WORTH What It Costs

Postmaster-General New, who has done admirable work for the air mail service, says it is a success as regards service, but very EXPENSIVE. He is not certain that it can continue.

If the postoffice does what the PEOPLE want, the service WILL continue. Whatever it costs to run those flying machines from ocean to ocean is little, compared to the value of training such fliers and developing the flying machine by postoffice work for other work.

The safety of this nation depends on the NUMBER and EFFICIENCY of its fliers and flying machines.

The Americans of 1776 fought and beat the English with guns that were part of their REGULAR USEFUL equipment to kill bears, deer and an occasional Indian. This nation ought to be prepared to meet any attack from across either ocean by the use of flying machines used in REGULAR BUSINESS for the mails, fighting forest fires, replanting forests and other commercial self-supporting purposes.

I See by the Papers -:- By T. E. Powers

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

By HELEN ROWLAND

CONSIDER, my daughter, the comach a monster which oppresseth way of a woman with the hair of her head.

For unto a man his hair is a source of great joy and his favorite medium of "SELF-EXPRESSION," but unto a woman her curling forelock is an eternal punishment!

Helen Rowland

Lo, the poet delighteth in his curling forelock and the magician permeateth his back hair to flow about his shoulders, denoting artistic temperament.

And only the bald-headed man and the convict are robbed of their crowning glory and their delight in Nature's Symbolism.

But all the days of her life a woman's hair is a source of doubt and sorrow and suffering.

For behold, in her infancy it is filled with waywardness, chewing gum, candy and tangles.

In her childhood it is the despair of her elders and the instrument of torture, which no small boy can resist when he spieth a chance to pull it.

And in her girlhood it causeth her great struggles with the curling tongs and much agonies with permanent waivings and the pursuit of the new models.

But in her middle age it becometh the temptation to bob it and to appear frivolous and foolish—and the temptation to leave it alone and be known in the Land as "Old Dear."

For alas, if she bobbeth it her husband may peradventure be driven to wild hoots of derision to sulks and disapproval.

Yet if she permitteth it to remain unbobbed, all her short-haired friends will raise their eyebrows, saying, "Poor thing! She is SO antique!"

If she bobbeth it, her children may peradventure weep and cry "Shame." Yet if she bobbeth it not, she shall surely be scorned and neglected by dance partners and left to adorn the chaperone's corner.

If she bobbeth, she will be accounted forward by the porch gossips and the elders—and if she bobbeth NOT, she will be called coward amongst the women of her club.

Verily, verily, from the cradle to the grave it never SUITETH her! For in all the world there is NO woman who is content with her way of doing her hair.

And in the last hour of her life all her anxiety is for how her hair shall be done when she hath to her coffin.

Go to! Not her figure, nor her heart, nor her duty, nor the future of her soul causeth a woman more torment than doth the hair of her head!

SELAH!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

THERE are joys of all kinds in this sunny old world, and I try hard to count them sometimes, they get into my labors and mixed with my play, and they tangle themselves into rhymes. They are many, so many, I never have hoped I could make the gay list quite complete, but I love to look back down the way that I've come and to note what has made it so sweet. Joy of gain after loss, joy of sun after rain, joy of rest at the end of the day, joy of peace that returned to a heart that knew pain, joy of friendship and love all the way. There are all kinds of joys in this funny old world, but the best one, perhaps, when all's said, is the pleasure that comes when you're making your plans and are happily looking ahead. Not a cloud dims the day as you dream it will be, not a sigh stirs the rhythm of song, and there's never a hint when you're looking ahead of the specires of sorrow and wrong.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Virtue is like a rich stone, best plain set.

* * *

The end of wisdom is consultation and deliberation.

* * *

Sire, adulation is a fatal thing—Bank poison for a subject or a king. —Wolcot.

* * *

Live today, forgetting the anxieties of the past.

* * *

If you are prudent do not thrust your hand into the fire.

"Punctuality," said Louis XIV, "is the politeness of kings." It is also the duty of gentlemen and the necessity of men of business.

Raillery is a poison which if undiluted kills friendship and excites hatred, but which qualified by a mixture of wit and the flattery of praise, produces friendship or preserves it.

'Tis good in every case, you know, To have two strings unto our bow. —Churchill.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON REVOLT OF YOUTH

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IN dealing with what is known as "the revolt of youth" we must take into account what education is.

Much of the revolt of youth is an expression of the spirit of independence, a revolt of the young person against adopting the ideas or methods that are not his own.

According to Dr. W. S. Bovard, Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Sunday Schools of the Methodist Episcopal Church, one phase of what has been called the revolt of youth may truthfully be called the collapse of restraint.

"Parents have almost quit raising their children," said Dr. Bovard, "teachers wear no badge of authority, and society in general refuses to train up children in the way they should go."

This of course is not so.

The children of today are as good as they ever were and the children of tomorrow will be better. Dr. Bovard's alarm is merely at a revolt against authority and it is not authority that children need so much as the proper development of their individuality.

This is not a plea for the absence of restraint among children, but it is rather a plea for placing the restraint in the right place. It should be within them.

Attention has been called to the collapse of authority. There is no collapse of authority. The only right place for authority is within one's self. No amount of training or discipline will do anyone any good if it is training and discipline in response to an outside stimulus.

It must be inside. The child should be trained to exercise and use his own faculties. In the using of these he will develop the necessary strength.

If more attention is paid to the development of children in the proper way and less attention to the sustaining of certain standards of society for children, more good will be done.

We should always keep in mind in matters of education that in a short time we will be gone and the responsibility of the world will be placed upon the shoulders of the children. Anyone who realizes this will realize that it is more important to develop strength in children than it is to develop our own authority over them.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON CROWN OF VENUS

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE planet Venus is now a glorious object in the morning sky. The splendor that she displayed in the evening during the closing day of May is so vivid a recollection in the minds of those who saw her then that many who who do not follow closely the movements of the planets will be surprised to learn that she has so quickly changed her position from one side of the sun to the opposite side, i. e., from the eastern side to the western.

This is due to her orbit lying inside that of the earth, and to her relatively great speed as she passes between the earth and the sun. Venus's angular velocity in her orbit is to that of the earth as 1.6 to 1, so that she leaves the earth behind very rapidly when they are traveling, as it were side by side, around concentric circular paths.

People who are unable to sleep soundly on hot August nights, and who rise to get a breath of fresh air at an open window facing eastward just as the first faint indication of coming day begins to appear on the horizon, will not fail now to recognize, and recognizing to admire, Venus, whose smiling brightness is positively cheering, adding freshness to the morning breeze.

Sun's Twins

If ever messages come from other worlds they come from her! You cannot look at her without feeling the sense of companionship that she imparts to her sister the earth. These two are the sun's twins, and upon his favorites. They share his most auspicious rays and occupy the best places in his radiant amphitheater.

Poor little Mercury, close down by the blazing footlights, is shrivelled and blinded. Runty Mars, back in the balcony, looks cold in spite of his red face, and seems wishful to get down into the cozy orchestra.

As for the lumbering giants, Saturn, Jupiter, Neptune and Uranus, away off in the dim upper galleries, the sun treats them as elder children who ought to be able to take care of themselves, and need no such attention as he gives to his nearer favorites, basking in the solar walk, whose most genial stretch extends from to have fallen.

the 67,000,000 miles of Venus to the 92,000,000 miles of the Earth. Therein lies the zone of life, as life exists in the present stage of evolution.

Venus when in inferior conjunction with the sun is ten million miles nearer the earth than Mars can ever get. And when she is near and bright she produces an atmospheric effect which ordinarily is an attribute only of the sun and the moon—the coats shadows of objects on the earth, and also, on rare occasions, is seen surrounded by a corona, or crown of light, produced by the brilliance of her rays refracted from particles of vapor floating high in our atmosphere.

A beautiful example of this rare and fairy-like phenomenon was witnessed on the 26th of April last, when Venus was very bright in the evening sky. The observation was made in France by Monsieur Bidaut de Flale. After a stormy day the sky partially cleared in the evening, leaving a thin, high-floating layer of cirrus clouds, which appeared through broad openings in the lower masses of nimbus.

Beautiful Sight

This layer, though faintly visible, was so translucent that stars shone through it, and Venus especially appeared in great beauty when a nimbus cloud that had hidden her broke open and, seeming to "eat the clouds" as the moon is sometimes said to do she advanced into the cleared space, surrounded by a beautiful crown of a soft, silvery aspect, about a degree and a half in breadth, and situated at a radial distance of 9 to 10 degrees from the planet.

This exquisite spectacle lasted only about 20 seconds, when the dark nimbus clouds swept over the planet and night seemed suddenly

Once-Overs

A PROBLEM MANY ARE TRYING TO SOLVE.

It's likely things look blue and discouraging to you at times.

You fail to see where you have been foolishly extravagant, but you have accumulated so little and always you have worked hard.

Sometimes you figure that if you had saved a comparatively small sum each year you would now have a nest egg that would relieve you of much worry.

You think of the many sacrifices you might have made which might have resulted in a considerable accumulation by this time, and you wonder if you have gotten enough out of life to make up for the present worry.

Also you wonder if you would have gotten as much out of life had you made the sacrifices.

Whichever way you look at it the question baffles you.

You have reached a position in life and you are among friends from which, and from whom, you would dislike to withdraw.

You feel that it is too late for you to make another start to build up a new set of friends, and also you think it would be impossible for you to be as happy as you are if you dropped out of the society of those friends.

Your problem is serious, but many others are trying to solve the same.
